

Drama:

I do like to be beside the seaside...

(episode three)

Presenter - Today on "I do like to be beside the seaside" once again we are back by beautiful lake Galilee. Today we are focussing on the important work of the emergency services here and how you can keep safe while in the area.

Guide - I have a very useful guide to keeping safe on the beach. It's nice to see people following the advice.

...Putting on loads of suncream and very attractive sun hats!

...Only swimming between the safety flags.

...Oh dear - there's someone floating out to sea on a lilo - I hope they can get back safely.

Well, if they do get into trouble I hope they know to dial 999 and ask for the coastguard - they are always your lifeline if you need help near the sea - with life boats and helicopters, they are in the seaside life-saving business, and they do an amazing job.

I've just heard on my earpiece that there is a job for the emergency services. Not in the sea, but in a house nearby - a girl dangerously ill. Oh, how said - seems they will be too late - the poor girl has just died. Not even the best doctors can help her now. [Listening in shock to earpiece} That's strange - I've just heard the girl isn't dead after all. Maybe the parents made a mistake. Let's ask an eyewitness: How did they make such a big mistake and think she was dead when she wasn't?

Eyewitness - No - she really was dead - and now she really is alive - walking around, playing, laughing.

Guide - That's ridiculous!

Eyewitness - [Still in shock]. But it's true. Jesus came and spoke a few words to the dead girl - and she got up. It was amazing. Is there nothing this Jesus can't do? And I thought that only God can give life to the dead. Hmmm, makes you think, doesn't it?

Guide - [Scratching his head]. Yes, it certainly does!
