

Drama:

I do like to be beside the seaside...

(episode one)

Presenter - This week our chosen destination on "I do like to be beside the seaside" is the beautiful Sea of Galilee – water, beaches and pretty seaside towns make this one of Israel's top tourist spots. There is so much to do and see that you are guaranteed an action packed holiday.

Guide - Today we are going to take a stroll along this lovely beach...

Here we can see some local children playing beach volleyball.

This is a family enjoying a picnic – bread and fish is a local favourite.

Oh look – some hardworking fishermen mending their nets. Fishing is a very important job in the area. Fathers pass their boats on to their sons from generation to generation. Once a fisherman in Galilee – always a fisherman in Galilee...

What's going on? These fisherman seem to be just leaving their nets and walking away in the middle of their work. This is most unusual. I'm sure the viewers would like to know what great Galilee attraction is so exciting to make them leave their work.

Mr. fisherman could you tell the viewers of "I do like to be beside the seaside" what has made you walk away from your work in the middle of the day?

Fishermen - Jesus asked us to follow him – so that's what we did.

Guide - So where are you following him? To the opening of a new fish restaurant perhaps, or a local fish festival that our viewers might like to hear about?

Fisherman - I don't know where we are going – we are just following HIM – wherever he goes we will go – learning to catch people for God rather than fish from the sea. You won't find anything in Galilee more exciting than Jesus!
